Montalvo, SJ State light FUSE on arts

Montalvo Arts Center has teamed up with San Jose State University's CADRE Laboratory for New Media for a residency research initiative — FUSE.

The project will bring together internationally renowned artists and science and technology leaders to collaborate on projects in the areas of globalization, sustainability, censorship, human rights and social responsibility.

The first artist groups chosen for FUSE — Red76, Mongrel and bulbo — are expected to complete their projects in June. The installations will appear at the ZERO1 Global Festival of Art on the Edge in downtown San Jose from June 4-8.

FUSE artists reside at Montalvo's Sally and Don Lucas Artists Programs while working with San Jose State University graduate students and Silicon Valley industry partners.
